

TALKING POINTS FOR TEACHER CREDENTIAL RULE REVISION

RULE 591-1-.31 Staff – Effective December 1, 2012, directors and lead teachers must have credentials in early childhood education. This requirement does not apply to assistant directors, assistant teachers, cooks, bus drivers, or persons providing indirect care to children. Note: School age only programs are required to have at least one staff member that meets the education credential requirements at all times.

Based on current research on child development and early childhood settings, this rule was enacted to improve the quality of early childhood programs by focusing on the critical skills and education of the teachers and directors necessary to provide quality education for young children.

This rule becomes effective December 2012. Because this educational requirement is new for child care providers, there was a three year time-frame allowing child care professionals adequate time to obtain one of the newly required credentials. Since the initial rule revision in 2009, many supports have been put in place to assist directors and lead teachers in locating the credential, certificate, diploma or degree she/he feels best meets her/his needs.

Directors and teachers have a range of credential options. Directors and teachers will have options they can select to satisfy the credential requirement. There are slight differences in the requirements of directors and lead teachers including qualifying experience.
